

Accessibility Statement

Skagit Conservation District is committed to making our website and digital services accessible to the widest possible audience, regardless of ability or circumstance.

We aim to meet the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) 2.1 Level AA standards, which outline best practices for making digital content more accessible and usable for everyone. We are actively working to maintain and improve accessibility across our digital products and services.

In April 2026, we completed a comprehensive accessibility audit of our website and program pages in partnership with August Creative LLC. Using tools including WebAIM and WAVE, we identified and addressed accessibility and contrast issues across the site. Based on those findings and recommendations, our website was brought into compliance as of April 30, 2026.

As a public-serving organization, we also strive to provide reasonable accommodations for anyone who needs additional support accessing our programs, services, or information. This may include providing materials in alternative formats or offering assistance upon request.

Accessibility is an ongoing effort, and we welcome your feedback. If you encounter a document, feature, or piece of content that is not accessible, please contact us. We will make every reasonable effort to provide the information in an alternative format or offer additional assistance.
